

HOODOO NUMBER 1300 SPOILED JOY RIDE

Inspector McClusky Plays a Joke by 'Phone on Deputy City Chamberlain.

A "MRS. HARRIS" AUTO.

It Did Not Exist, but John Campbell Really Thought That It Did.

Scene—Office of City Chamberlain.
Telephone bell rings.
Deputy Chamberlain John Campbell—
Hello, who is it?

Inspector George McClusky (at other end of wire, disguising his voice)—Is this Mr. Campbell? Just the man I want to speak to. I am Reynolds, representative of the Scottkell Auto Company. Got a fine car here. Heard you want one.
Just suit you. Cheap as dirt. Give you a demonstration any speed. Yes, I'll call at your apartment with machine this afternoon at 2 o'clock—the Piermont? I'll be there. Sure, you will be pleased. All right, sir; good-bye.

Later.
Same scene.
Campbell at phone—Give me 1300
Tremont, please. That you, Inspector?
Hello George. Get ready for a joy ride.
Fine auto. All wraps. Two o'clock this
aft. Yes, at the Piermont, my apartment, you know. Fine time.
McClusky—I'll be there with bells.

Still Later—Same Scene.

Telephone again jingles.
"That you, Mr. Campbell? Well, this is Reynolds, of Scottkell Auto Co.
That demonstration is off. We're not going to be imposed on. They tell me you get demonstration rides every day and never buy a machine. Nothing doing!"

Campbell—What's that? What do you mean, sir?

Demonstrator—Nothing doing. It's all off. So long. (Rings off.)

Campbell (indignant)—The idea! That puppy. (Rings back.) Well, I'll have to putty George. What shall I tell him?

(Rings up 1300 Tremont.)
Campbell—That you, George?

McClusky—Yes, John. What's up now?

Campbell—That little ride is off.
George. Just got word a death—no,
a birth or something in grand-jury's family and got to get over there. Sorry, George. Some other day will take a trip. (Sounded of muffled laughter come over the phone.)

Campbell—What are you laughing at,
George? This isn't a laughing matter.
McClusky (cringing off)—I ain't laughing, John.

Campbell retires to his desk, a multitude of mental suggestions flooding his brain.

What's the Answer?
Here's a riddle
that's caught the town: "A mysteri-

with me, it's a trifle for when it
is closed and locked
what is its value
when it is open?"
It is going to be
